

OFFSHORE ECHOES

MISSION 100

100 Global Female Maritime Professionals speak in one voice

79

SARITA SHASHANK MOHITE

Elegant Marine Services

I always dreamt that more women would join the profession & now we see that change, at sea in addition to working ashore. There are challenges one cannot deny, but I am so glad to see more females opt for the profession. I cannot help but mention the importance of the industry, which came more in focus during the current COVID crisis!

I salute the change and hope for a Gender Free Maritime Industry – Jai Hind!

I joined the company two decades ago as a timid and shy girl! The work atmosphere at our organisation and this journey has transformed me into a confident professional who can multi task.

SHAHEEN SYED

Head of Crewing Department
BHN Group (Offshore Services Pvt Ltd)

80

As a graduate of Child Psychology and MBA (UK) – The Maritime Industry was never on my list of careers!

Once I learnt the opportunities that this dynamic industry has to offer (thanks to my PGD at NMIS), I knew this is where I had to be. My education drew me closer to opportunities in Crew Management & working at BHN for a decade has only made me grow and crave for more to learn

Working with Seafarers and Clients requires a balanced approach, meeting their expectations to achieve the common goal of safe, secure and efficient shipping – on clean oceans